Digital Identification Solutions Academy - Now Online

New web-based tool is now available to certified distribution partners worldwide and at any time

Stuttgart/Germany, 15 May 2008 – The Digital Identification Solutions Group, a leading global supplier of identification solutions, announces the launch of the Digital Identification Solutions Academy, a new web-based tool exclusively designed for partners worldwide, which coincides with a comprehensive re-launch of the company's website.

Digital Identification Solutions has created its own web-based Internet Academy with the purpose of providing useful industry information and downloads as well as e-learning modules exclusively for its certified partners. This new tool has now gone live and will enable distributors to provide their customers with even better quality service, by keeping them up-to-date all the time with useful training and sales material.

The focus of the Digital Identification Solutions Academy is to educate certified partners about the latest market trends, innovations, products and improvements. The Internet Academy is accessible at any time – irrespective of time zones - and at any place. The new tool consists of a library with recent company, product and business information as well as a training center with videos and documentation to increase the distributor's knowledge of our products and services. The general aim of the Internet Academy is to provide valuable information to partners and to assist them in becoming even more successful in their daily business.

In parallel to the start of the web-based Academy, Digital Identification Solutions has relaunched its complete corporate website with a new look and a very user-friendly navigation. The emphasis of the new website is the complete solution and product portfolio offerings of this experienced global ID solutions provider.

To experience the Digital Identification Solutions Academy and the new website please visit www.digital-identification.com and stay up-to-date all the time.
